Great book that has lots of designs for the different temples, thank u for creating the books for those of us who love to cross stitch

Included in this book are artistically updated patterns of the eleven LDS temples located in the state of Utah. There are detailed instructions, two alphabets for personalization, a wedding sampler, six borders, and a complete listing of all the temples world-wide with their dedication dates. This book is the ninth in Horizon Publishers series of counted cross-stitch pattern books depicting nearly all the LDS Temples throughout the world.

About the Author
Jean D. Crowther and her five sisters experienced all the challenges these years can bring as they grew up together in Mesa, Arizona. Her wise parents, J. Smith and Helen Decker, guided their family well, helping each to overcome her problems and to rise to her fullest potential. Jean is the mother of eight children, with two married sons and two university students (all of whom successfully weathered their teen-age years) and three more who are currently teenagers. For more than twenty years, she has worked with the youth of the Church in the Mutual organization, serving in many callings. During this time she has personally taught and influenced several hundred girls, and influenced several hundred girls, and influenced thousands of others from the pulpit. Sister Crowther loves the youth, knows their problems and capabilities, and desires that they succeed in life. She has also served in all the other Church auxiliaries as both a teacher and in music callings, and has worked in scouting and in the genealogical programs. She lives with her husband, Duane S. Crowther, a noted author, and their family in Bountiful, Utah. In her professional life, Jean works as a designer of craft and cross-stich publications, supervising their preparation at Horizon Publishers.
